The Squire's Apples.

'Such pretty apples!' cried Linnet Dessoir, ecstatically. 'With red cheeks, just as if a fairy pencil had painted them, and delicious, bloomy streaks here and there! I should like to copy them on a plaque or a pannel or something, if only one could be sure of reproducing those delicate tints of rose and white!'

'Well, I declare!' said Rose Hebron, the country cousin, whom she was visiting, laughing with a merry, thrush-like laugh, as the two girls sat on a moss-enameled boulder under the boughs of the lady-apple-tree, with here and there a yellow leaf fluttering dreamily down at their feet. 'Who would dream of such a poetical description applying to the apples that grow in Squire Sandford's orchard?'

'Wasn't it good of him to allow us to gather them?' said Linnet, trimming the side-leaflets off a lovely branch of yellow golden rod.

'I shall not believe that they are absolutely ours though,' declared Rose, 'until I see them in the old apple-bin at home.'

'Why not?'

'Oh, Squire Cedric is eccentric!' Rose answered, carelessly.

'Cedric? Is that his name?'

'Yes. Isn't it an odd relic of the Saxton times?' laughed Rose.

'It's a very romantic name,' remarked Linnet, wrinkling her brows in pretty consideration of the epithet.

'He isn't romantic,' observed Rose.

'Isn't he? But why not?'

'He's so odd! Thirty, at least!' Rose responded, with an emphatic nod of the head.

'Horrid ogre!' said Linnet, who was in her seventeenth year. 'Come, Rosey, let's go home. I'm as hungry as a cannibal! Gathering apples is such hard work!'

She skipped ahead, with her yellow tresses floating behind, like stray strands of sunshine, and her white dress rustling over the drifts of perfumed leaves that carpeted the path.

Rose followed, with affectionate eyes of admiration.

'What is the difference between me and Linnet?' she asked herself. 'My dress is white also; my hair is as golden as hers. Why is it that she is like a dancing sprite—I, a plodding human being?'

Poor little Rosy! She did not realize that Linnet Dessoir had grown up in an altogether different atmosphere; that Linnet had unconsciously modeled her dress from the graceful robes which her father, the artist, kept to drape his lay-figures; that her eye had been trained, her taste cultured, in every possible point.

'He's only a poor struggling artist!' Farmer Hebron had been wont contemptously to observe, when he saw his brother-in-law's name among the lists specially-honored by the Academy of Design.

'He's a good fellow enough,' Eugene Dessoir airily remarked, when his agricultural connection happened to be mentioned. 'But he hasn't an idea beyond his own fat cattle! He don't live; he only vegetates!'

Linnet, however, the bright, motherless young beauty, was a great favorite of the kind hearted Hebrons; and when she had so enthusiastically admired the beautiful pink and white lady-apples on Squire Sandford's tree, Mr. Hebron had gone so far out of his way to ask the Squire for a barrel.

'Just to please the little girl,' said he. 'She thinks a deal of pretty things.'

'She is quite welcome,' said Squire Sandford, with formal politeness. 'If you will send a barrel to the tree tomorrow, Mr. Hebron, it shall be filled for your niece.'

And when the Squire said this he pictured in his mind's eye the aforesaid niece as a romp of eleven or twelve, with shingled hair, freckles and preternaturally long arms.

All night long Linnet Dessoir dreamed of the lady-apples, and when the sun rose, a sphere of rubied fire, above the eastern hills, she jumped out of bed and dressed herself with haste.

'I can't sleep another minute,' said she. 'It's just the very sort of morning to walk out across the woods and look at the lady-apple-tree, with the little spring gushing out so close to its roots, and the blue asters, and thickets of golden-rod, by the stone fence. I won't wake Rosy. Rosy was up late last night, putting labels on the quince jelly. I'll let her sleep, and go by myself.'

But Miss Hebron was no more of a laggard in the morning than was her city cousin. At seven precisely she knocked at Linnet's door, but the bird had flown.

'How provoking!' said Rose. 'But I'll follow her. She must have gone to try to make that sketch of the old mossy rock close to the lady-apple tree! I wonder if she knows that my father has pastured Ajax in the adjoining field?'

"Ajax" was a savage, beautiful bull, who was at once the pride and torment of Farmer Hebron, and a thrill of terror came into Rose's heart as she made all speed to follow the dewy track of Linnet's footsteps over the grass.

As she reached the belt of woods close to the apple orchard, she paused in dismay at the sound of a sweet, high-pitched voice.

'It's Linnet!' she involuntarily exclaimed. 'And she's scolding somebody. Dear me, whom can it be? Surely not Ajax!'

'You are a thief!' she could hear Linnet exclaim—'a robber! Let that barrel of apples alone, I say. I don't care whether you are Squire Sandford or not. The barrel of apples is mine!'

And as Rose drew near, she could see this dimpled young Amazon resolutely defending the barrel of apples, with her single strength, against Squire Sandford and his stoutest farm laborer.

She stood there, with one slight hand on the red-cheeked fruit, which was brimming over the barrel-hoops, and before her the tall Squire and his herculean aid-de-camp were helpless.

'If you will allow me to explain—' pacifically began the Squire.

'I will allow nothing!' declared Linnet. 'I repeat, these apples are mine! Touch them, at your peril!'

Thus far the young heroine was a conquerer. But alas! in that very moment of victory Nemesis was at hand. There was the dull sound of trampling hoofs, then a sullen bellow, and Ajax himself, bursting through a weak spot in the fence, was upon them.

Linnet Dessoir collapsed, so to speak, at once. She forgot her heroism, her dignity—everything but her danger, and flew for rescue, to Squire Sandford, shrieking:

'Save me! save me!'

The farm-hand dogged behind the wagon; but Squire Sanford never quailed, but held her resolutely in his arms.

'Do not be afraid,' he said, almost as if he had been speaking to a frightened child. 'Nothing shall harm you, little one!'

For an instant things looked very black; then SquireSandford spoke gently once more.

'Do not hold my arm so tightly,' said he, 'Let me get at my revolver. I must shoot the brute! No, don't be so terrified. Do not you hear me say that nothing should harm you?'

And then the problem resolved itself, as problems often do. Ajax, butting his huge head against the barrel of lady-apples, sent them rolling in all directions, and caught his horns in the barrel itself, effectually blinding him. He set off at a wild gallop down the hill, bellowing as he went, and there he met his fate in the shape of two or three men with a running noose of rope and a good stout chain.

'Hello, pet!' shouted Farmer Hebron's voice. 'What's the matter? She hasn't fainted, has she, Squire?'

And Linnet, realizing that she was safe, blushingly withdrew from Mr. Sandford's sheltering arms, and ran to her uncle.

'I am so much obliged to you, sir,' she whispered. 'And please—please don't mind what I said about the apples. You are quite welcome to them.'

'Hey? Apples!' said Mr. Hebron. 'Why Linnet, didn't you know that I carted the barrel of apples that the Squire gave you home last night.'

Linnet grew crimson all over, and fled to Rose's faithful breast for consolation.

'I—I shall never dare to look that man in the face again,' she bewailed herself. 'Oh, dear—oh, dear, what must he have thought of me!'

But of course Mr. Sandford considered it only right and proper to call that evening, and inquire how Miss Dessoir found herself; and really the meeting was not half as embarassing as Linnet had fancied it would be.

They had a good laugh about Ajax and the apples; and Linnet confessed how dreadfully frightened she had been.

'And with reason,' said Squire Sandford. 'There was a second or two in which we were in very serious danger.'

'But you will forgive me about the apples?' said Linnet, with pretty, coaxing earnestness

'Oh, yes, I will forgive you about the apples!' Squire Sandford laughingly returned.

And in that moment Linnet thought what a very pretty color his eyes were, and decided that he couldn't possibly be thirty years old.

'Isn't it strange,' said Rose Hebron, 'that we have lived neighbor to Squire Sandford all these years, and he has never been more than ordinary polite to me? And here comes Linnet, and quarrels with him at five minutes' notice, and calls him all sorts of names, and now they are engaged to be married, and I am to be the bridesmaid.'

'Not at all strange!' said Miss Dessoir. 'To me it seems as nice and natural as possible. But you are mistaken about his age, Rosy. He is only twenty-nine. And if he were a hundred and twenty-nine, I should love him all the same.'

'Of course,' said Rose; 'that is what all engaged girls say.'

Dickens' Kittens.

Charles Dickens, the great novelist, once had a cat which he christened with the German name of Williamina. This cat ingratiated herself into favor with every one in the house, but she was particularly devoted to the master. Charles Dicken's daughter tells us that once after a family of kittens had been born, Williamina took a fancy that she and her family would live in the novelist's study. So she brought them up, one by one, from the kitchen floor, where a comfortable bed had been provided for them, and deposited them in the corner of the study. They were taken down stairs by order of the master, who said he really could not allow the kittens to be in his room. Williamina tried again, but again with the same result. But when, the third time, she carried a kitten up the stairs into the hall, and from there to the study window, jumping in with it in her mouth, and laying it at her master's feet, until the whole family were at last before him, and she herself sat down beside them and gave him an imploring look, he could resist no longer, and Williamina carried the day.

As the kittens grew up they became very rampagious, and swarmed up the curtains and played on the writing-table, and scampered among the bookshelves, and made such a noise as was never heard in the study before. But the same spirit which influenced the whole house must have been brought to bear upon those noisy little creatures to keep them still and quiet when necessary, for they were never complained of, and they were never turned out of the study until the time came for giving them away and finding good homes for them.

One kitten was kept, and, being a very exceptional cat, deserves to be specially mentioned. Being deaf he had no name given him, but was called by the servants 'the master's cat,' in consequence of his devotion to him. He was always with his master, and used to follow him about the garden and sit with him while he was writing. One evening they were left together, the ladies of the house having gone to a ball in the neighborhood. Charles Dickens was reading at a small table, on which a lighted candle was placed, when suddenly the candle went out. He was much interested in his book, relighted the candle, gave a pat to the cat, who he noticed was looking up at him with a most pathetic expression, and went on with his reading. A few minutes afterwards, the light getting dim, he looked up and was in time to see puss deliberately put out the candle with his paw, and then gaze again appealingly at his master. This second appeal was understood, and had the desired effect. The book was shut, and puss was made a fuss with and amused till bed-time.

The World's Largest Barn.

The Union Cattle Company, of Cheyenne, has a cattle barn located eight miles from Omaha, which is the largest structure of the kind in the world. It was commenced in April, 1885, and $125,000 has been expended upon it. There are accommodations for 3750 head of cattle, and the original design to provide for 8,000 head will probably be carried out during the present year. The building is 400 by 600 feet, covering five acres, and in it the cattle are fattened for market. So complete are the arrangements for feeding that one man can attend to it. All that he has to do is to turn the faucet, and the cooked meal, forced to large tanks above the barn, passes to the feeding trough in front of each animal. Forty-five men do all the work, making one man for every 200 head of cattle. It requires about 1,000 bushels of meal for each day's feeding, in addition to the hay from the prairie, which costs $4 a ton. There is a regular system of water works, and with it the flooring is cleaned up twice a day, requiring only seven men to do this part of the daily labor. The Union Cattle Company was incorporated about seventeen years ago. The men who compose it began on a small scale years ago, with a very little capital, too. They now have 80,000 head of cattle on the range, and have $3,000,000 invested in the business. The stock consists of Herefords, Shorthorns and Durhams, and is continually improving by the introduction of the finest animals in the market. They are kept on the ranges in Wyoming and Montana till they are about three or four years old, when they are brought to the barn for fattening, which requires about four months.

WHERE THE LEECHES COME FROM AND WHAT IS DONE WITH THEM.

A Cincinnati Barber who Imports and Sells the Leeches.

'Screaming Isaac! What's that?' shrieked the reporter of the Cincinnati Sun, jumping from a barber's chair on West Sixth street, as the proprietor, Peter Muschler, unscrewed the lid of a heavy air-tight and mysterious box, and disclosed 2,000 greasy, wiggling, villainous worms, pulling themselves out about four inches and bowing to the half-dozen customers on the opposite chairs.

'Oh, come back,' said the barber, reassuringly. 'Nothing but leeches I have just imported from Sweden. Perfectly harmless sir. I have been importing leeches for many years, and am the only importer this side of New York. The use of leeches in Europe is very common—much more so than in this country. People over there only die happy when they have a leech on their bodies. The worms are found in a composition of wood and vegetable matter known as 'turf,' which is used as a substitute for coal by the poor of Europe. They are shipped to me in small boxes of their native element, about 2,000 in each consignment. I get four boxes every year now, though I used to sell 10 000 and 12,000 leeches in Cincinnati annually. Who are my customers? Oh, everybody; but principally physicians and oculists. The drug stores buy a great many, and I have a good trade with the hospitals. I also sell to a few barber shops in the city.

'The eye doctors use leeches for weak and inflamed eyes. You see, the worm sucks the surplus blood around the eye and removes the cause of inflamation. Persons afflicted with neuralgia find a leech a good remedy. Every day I make sales to families whose names are not disclosed. You would be astonished to see a printed list of the people who keep leeches in their families, and who don't want anybody to know it. What do they cost to import? Well, that is one of the secrets of the trade. I retail them at $10 per hundred, or $1.50 a dozen. Of course, when a customer calls for one only I charge him a quarter. A leech, you see, is a little like a toothbrush—everybody wants one of his own. Indeed, it is not considered safe to use a leech twice, because the impure blood they draw from their subjects impregnates their system and they would likely communicate poison. Hence they are killed as soon as their work is done. You wonder how much blood they drink? Well it varies with the size of the leech. But I should say two ounces at least. Won't you examine one closer?'

Here the barber reached down into the hatful of kicking worms, selected a specimen, and seizing it by the tail, though it seemed to be all tail, held it up to the light. It was then seen to have ten eyes no legs and possessed more belts and rings than the planet Saturn. It had a bad mouth for blood, while the hungry expression in its eyes gave way to pity and condolence at the guant and pallid face of the newsman. The nasty little fellow was then carefully gathered up and shoved into the box, while the barber concluded with the following wise observation: 'The custom of bleeding by means of leeches was known and practiced extensively by the ancients, and prevails largely in Europe and eastern countries even at the present time. Their utility in this country, however, has been largely supplanted by artificial leeches and cupping, which is generally preferred, especially by women, who almost go into hysterics at the sight of a real, live leech.'

Weeping at the Panorama.

Among the crowd present at the battle panorama the other evening was a boy about fifteen years of age. He had been gazing around him for about fifteen minutes, when he began to weep. The fact was noticed, and directy a gentleman said:

'Ah, poor lad! This painting revives some episode of grief in his life. My boy, why do you weep?'

''Ca-ca-cause, sir!" was the broken reply as his tears fell faster.

'Does the sight of this battle move you?'

'Y-yes.'

'Did your father lay down his life on this field?'

'No.'

'But you lost a relative of some sort?'

'Not—not that I know of.'

'Then it must be those bloody scenes that overcome you poor child.'

'N-no, sir. I come in here on the money which dad gave me to buy molasses with and it has just struck me that the whole Union army can't stop him from giving me a bimawful whalin' when I git home. I reckon that feller over there on a stretcher is me—after dad gits through bringin' up his reserves.'—Detroit Free Press.

Better than the Quane.

'Ma-a-tchis? missis, ma-a-tchis! Three for five, ma-atchis?' cried a thin child's voice. The voice belonged to a girl less than a yard high, who had big, pleading blue eyes and a pert mouth. The street was crowded with people, some of them out to show their fine clothes, but most of them to do Christmas shopping. The blue-eyed child persistently offered her wares to a man who was walking with a very stylishly-dressed young lady.

'Go away!' said the man in a gruff tone.

'Ah, the poor little thing,' cried the young woman. 'Why don't you buy some of her matches, Fred? I'll do it myself. Here, little girl,' opening a sealskin reticule and fishing out some coins with her daintily gloved hand. 'She's very neatly clad and looks as though she had a good mother. I just believe I'll make her a present,' and, suiting the action to the word, she opened her fur coat and unfastened a knot of bright cherry ribbon that caught up a loop in her silk dress. Then she quickly pinned the knot on the child's grey hood, and patting the pink cheek, turned away.

'What in the world made you do that?' demanded the man, evidently much annoyed.

'Oh, why, it will please the poor mother so to think that some one has noticed her sweet-faced child,' was the young lady's reply, and the two went down the street.

A tall, red-faced Irishman had been standing on the curb, watching the performances with keen interest.

'The young lady is better nor the Quane of England,' he remarked, looking after the couple. 'Be the power, Oi could go down on my knase and worship a beautiful craythur loike that, as isn't ashamed to do a koind act to the poor with her own swate hands."

The Fastest Shave on Record.

'Talking about quick shaves,' said a passenger on a Rock Island suburban train, 'I came down to the depot the other day just four minutes before train time. I ran into that shop across the way, kept by Mrs. Whatshername, and said: 'Gimme a three-minute shave.' 'All right,' said she; sit down.' And I'll be darned if she didn't go over my face in good shape in just three minutes by the watch, and I got brushed off and caught my train nicely.'

This stirred up the story-tellers. One man had been shaved in two minutes, another in a minute and a half and so on.

'Just wait till you hear from me,' said a low-browed, tough-looking passenger. 'For seven years I shaved in a shop where one barber run the razor over an average of sixty faces an hour. What do you think of that?'

'Impossible,' exclaimed several listeners in chorus.

'No, it isn't impossible,' continued the low-browed man. 'This barber didn't do anything but use his razor. The men lathered their own faces while waiting their turn, and a boy handed him freshly honed razors. Seven or eight slashes was a shave, and the customers wiped their own faces after leaving the chair.'

'How much did the barber charge a head?'

'Nothing; and he got no wages. He was the barber in Jeffersonville Prison.'

VANDERBILT AND GARRETT.

An Eye-Witness' Account of What Transpired Between the Old Giants.

A Western Marylander, an intimate friend of the late John W. Garret, related to me the other day the circumstances of the first meeting between Mr. Garrett and Commodore Vanderbilt, the pioneers in that railroad world in which their sons have since become kings. Mr. Garrett related the interview to my friend a few days after its occurrence.

The president of the Baltimore and Ohio called upon the old commodore just after Bob Garrett had graduated from Princeton College in 1867. Bob and Harrison were with their father at the time, and when they were ushered into the presence of the commodore the two boys took themselves to an obscure corner of the room. Mr. Vanderbilt's greeting was:

'Garrett, you have run that B. and O. d——d well.'

Such words from the lips of such a clerical-looking gentleman as Mr. Vanderbilt astounded Mr. Garrett who admitted his success, but modestly attributed it to the board of directors rather than to any ability of his own.

'The directors be d——d,' sharply interrupted the clerical-looking old commodore; 'they are the most intolerable nuisances outside of h—.'

Bob and Harry snickered so loudly at this that Vanderbilt looked at them, seemingly surprised at their presence. 'Who are these youngsters?' he inquired of his guest. Mr. Garrett introduced them as his sons.

'Look here,' he continued, 'if you want to make men out of them take some advice from me. Put them at the hardest work you can scrape up in your office and keep them at it all the time. Marry them as quickly as you can and make them support their wives and family without any help from you.' Mr. Garrett and the old commodore never met again.

'Bob' has become the successor of his father, and it was at his feet that the son and successor of the man who told his father how to raise him fell dead.'

A Drummer's Luck.

Charlie Baker is a traveler out of Philadelphia and a very good man, but sometimes he runs up against somebody who is one too much for Charlie. He tells this one on himself:

'You see,' he said, in reply to a question for particulars, 'it was this way. I was at a hotel table not long ago, and when the waiter came around for my order I rushed through the ram, lamb, sheep or mutton part, and wound up by calling for a five dollar bill, expecting to throw the hash producer clear over on to his bean ends, but he never smiled and only said 'yes sah,' and went to the kitchen. In a few minutes he returned with my order and on a nice silver dish was a bran new five dollar bill. I thought it was a job on me of some kind and in my coolest manner I stuck it in my pocket and went ahead to demolish the viands. I had been in the hotel a couple of days and was to leave that afternoon. So right after dinner I went to the clerk for my bill and to order my baggage down.

'What's the bill?' I asked.

'Two days at $2 a day is $4,' replied the clerk, 'bath 25 cents, one five dollar bill, $5.50; $9.75 in all.'

'What do you mean by charging a half dollar extra for that $5 bill?' I exclaimed angrily.

'Didn't you order it at dinner?'

'Of course I did.'

'It wasn't on the bill of fare, was it?'

'I didn't see it there.'

'But you did see there a note which read: All dishes ordered not on the bill of fare will be charged extra,' did you not?'

'That broke my heart,' continued Charlie. 'I hadn't a word to say nor a thing to do but pay the extra half dollar and lay for that waiter, and I'm laying for them you bet.'—Merchant Traveler.

TO PRESERVE THE FORESTS.

Dangers Attending the Present Wholesale Slaughter of Trees Exposed.

A meeting was held last week at the hall of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, No. 1300 Locust street, Philadelphia, 'to expose the dangers attending the present destruction of forests and in the hope of arousing a general interest in forestry in Pennsylvania.' Clayton McMichael presided and Professor J. T. Rothrock delivered the first address. He called especial attention to the slaughter of the Western forests. 'Why,' said he, 'they cut the trees for their bark only and then let them rot. Thus does a conflagration spread when a fire takes place. Others are felled, one or two railroad ties taken and the rest left to rot as before. It takes forty years to grow a tree properly.'

Professor Edmund J. James read a paper, in which he said: 'Everything—fish, game, coasting trade and manufactures—is protected, except the forests. Whenever it appears that the interest of the community is likely to suffer the State has interfered. We must now begin to pay attention to forest culture and forest protection, which are more important than any of the others. We can import lumber, but climate and rainfall, so dependent on timber, we cannot. We must have, first, government protection by law; second, special individual action. We must have State forests, under the control and management of the State; offer premiums and institute professorships among the farmers and others.' Professor B. E. Fernon, Chief of the Forestry Division Department of Agriculture, Washington, showed clearly the necessity for action in the matter and dilated upon the difference on this side of the Anlantic and the other, where special government attention is given to forest culture.

Dr. J. M. Anders followed in an instructive and forcible appeal, the character of his audience 'being a guarantee of the earnestness and power of those interested in the movement.'

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, JUNE 3RD, 1886.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

THE city of Reading is happy now since their postoffice is in charge of a democratic postmaster for the first time in 25 years. Calvin Goodman, the new man, entered upon his duties on the first of June.

JOHN KELLY, the great Tammany chief, is now beyond the harrassing toils of this life and especially of political campaigns. He died at his residence in New York on Tuesday afternoon, after an illness of seven months.

ANOTHER distinguished bachelor is reported to have been caught in the meshes of love. Governor Hill, of New York is said to be likely to follow President Cleveland's example by marrying a wealthy young widow of Albany. Cupid must have opened war upon the hearts of the executives.

ON Tuesday the President sent to the senate the following nominations: David L. Hawkins, of Missouri, for Assistant Secretary of the Interior, vice George A Jenks, resigned; Joseph B. Johnson of Virginia, to be Commissioner in and for the District of Alaska, vice Chester S. Eber, resigned.

A NUMBER of Pennsylvania capitalists, composing the Pioneer Mining and Manufacturing Company, and mostly residents of Catasauqua, Pa., and vicinity, are about making arrangements to erect large iron furnaces in Alabama, about three miles from Birmingham. A boom for Southern fields.

AT LAST the curious and inquisitive reporters of the large city dailies are out of their agony and may again enjoy a quiet night's rest. The great event, President Cleveland's marriage, which would have been such a precious morsel of news had they known date and particulars a little earlier, is now past and there wasn't such an awful fuss made about it either.

GRANDMASTER POWDERLY, when asked the question the other day, whether James G. Blaine, the Plumed Knight, is also a Knight of Labor answered in the negative by saying in a cutting way that already enough bad things were said about the order, leaving alone such a misfortune. If J. G. B. still entertains presidential aspirations he would better work Powderly out of the way before 1888.

THE Prohibition Party in this state propose to put the following ticket in the field this fall:

Governor, Hon. Charles S. Wolfe, of Union; Lieutenant Governor, Colonel George F. Macfarland, of Dauphin; Auditor General, Captain M. L. Marquis, of Lawrence; Secretary of Internal Affairs, Professor H. D. Patton, of Greene, and Congressman at large, Samuel P. Godwin, of Philadelphia.

THE Harrisburg Patriot rightly calls the Senate the hot-bed of subsidies. It says that these subsidies seldom originate in the House. They are a fungus matter that attaches itself to an appropriation bill after it has passed the House and got into the other chamber. As an example, the House passed the Post-office Appropriation Bill. The Senate added a clause giving $800,000 for the benefit of two or three steamship lines, trusting to the chance of forcing the House to yield to the demands of the jobbers rather than be responsible for an extra session.

HERR MOST, the principal anarchist, who is at present on trial in New York for inciting riots and communism, has a rather checkered history. After having been incarcerated for several years in his native country, Germany, for precisely the same crime for which he is being tried now, he went to France, and when it got too hot for him there, he went to England. There again he spent some time in prison for publishing and distributing socialistic literature and when he had served out his term behind the bars he sailed for the United States and again engaged in his rascally business of firing on the blind and less educated workingman to the bloody and disastrous work of rioting. Legally he cannot be charged with murder or bloodshed, as his companions in Chicago, and consequently he will likely slip clear with a year in the penitentiary; but it is a pity all the same, for practically he is at the bottom of all the mischief, and deserves to hang as well as Spies and his other anarchical brethren.

Appropriation Bill Becomes Law.

Washington, May 30.—Of fourteen annual appropriation bills the Indian bill has become a law. The District of Columbia and Post-office bills have passed both Houses and are in the hands of conference committees. The consular and diplomatic, army, pension, Military Academy, agricultural and river and harbor bills have passed the House of Representatives and are before the Senate committees. The legislative and naval bills are on the House calendar awaiting action. The fortification, sundry evil and general deficiency bills have not yet been reported from the House committees.

The Wolfe Movement Has a Dangerous Look.

From the Crawford Journal, Rep.

The proposition of the Pennsylvania Prohibitionists to nominate Charles E. Wolfe for Governor has a dangerous look. The old Independent fires are slumbering, not entirely extinguished, and there are many Republicans who will not vote for General Beaver now any more than they would four years ago. They will gladly vote for Wolfe, not because they are Prohibitionists, but because they are favorable to General Beaver. Mr. Wolfe would undoubtedly poll more than the regular Prohibition vote. Whether his candidacy would not keep from the Democratic candidate those Independent votes which he might otherwise get is a fair question. The count alone would tell. For our part, although not in favor of General Beaver's nomination, we believe if nominated he should be elected. He got his punishment in 1882 for his subserviency and doubtless he will remember it.

THE INDIAN SITUATION SERIOUS.

A General Outbreak at San Carlos Feared. Three Indians Scalped.

Tucson, May 29.—The Indian situation is growing serious. It is feared that a general outbreak from the San Carlos reservation will take place. It is said there is no doubt that the hostiles are being reinforced from this reservation and that the long continued success of the hostiles has emboldened the others. General Miles is very active and is enlisting rangers from the most determined men. A company is being recruited at Tucson who will take the field at once. Southern Arizonia, it is stated, is in a state of terror.

Wilcox, Arizona May 29.—On Wednesday night Indians attacked Jones brothers' ranch, near Hooker's, Hot Springs. The owners made an effective defense, killing three of the Indians, whom they scalped.

Critteden, Arizona, May 29.—G. P. Wemple, superintendent of the Chicago Washer Company, at Greaterville, was killed by Indians this morning while on his way from a neighboring ranch to Greaterville.

President Cleveland Married to Miss Folsom.

Washington, May 29.—At last the long suspense is ended; the President has owned up; the ship has come in; the bride and the trousseau are safe on the land. A bombshell could not have startled some nerves more than when the news was given out on Friday night. The Cabinet officers received the President's confidence on the subject of the wedding only the shortest time in advance of the whole world, and experience the same universal sense of relief that the general conviction is at last a certainty.

Official society is now bowed down with grief at the death of Miss Folsom's grandfather, but for which sad event the wedding would have been celebrated with great splendor and all the official world invited to a grand reception. As with the brides of sovereigns and heirs apparent, she comes to the Capitol to be married in the official residence of the ruler, although the one precedent of the kind, President Tyler, went over to New York and married Miss Gardner there. Dr. Sunderland, the President's pastor, is to officiate, and his surprise at the first notification of it may be imagined when it came late on a quiet night by a corpse of reporters ringing his door-bell and plying him with questions.

THE WEDDING TO BE A VERY QUIET ONE.

Washington, May 29.—The White House is a busy place. Now that the secrecy connected with the President's wedding has been removed, and the date has been announced as June 2, the evidences of preparation are visible. Improvements in and around the Executive Mansion are being pushed forward with great vigor, and Colonel Wilson, Superintendent of Public Buildings and grounds, is giving the work his personal supervision. The household force is larger than usual and the interior of the mansion is being scoured from top to bottom. An addition has been made to the fountain which ornaments the beautiful lawn at the south front of the building, which is said to have been suggested by Miss Folsom when she was last a guest at the White House.

It is the President's desire, as well as that of Miss Folsom, that the marriage ceremony shall be performed with as little display as possible, and, owning to the recent death in the Folsom family, only the immediate friends of the Cleveland and Folsom families, the Cabinet officers and their families, and a few personal friends will be invited to witness the ceremony. There will be no bridesmaids or groomsmen. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Sunderland, of the Presbyterian Church.

A wedding supper will be served in the state dining room, at which the new hostess of the White House will preside for the first time. The President has decided to postpone his bridal tour until after Congress adjourns and will spend his honeymoon at the White House.

The State Doctors.

Williamsport, Pa., June 1.—The State Medical Convention will convene here tomorrow. Already a large number of physicians are in the city. The convention will continue in session until Friday.

Western Crop Reports.

Chicago, May 30.—The following crop summary will be printed in this week's issue of the Farmers' Review: As the season advances the reports of the presence of insects in the winter wheat fields grow more numerous; but beyond certain afflicted districts in Kansas, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, the reports are of an isolated character and do not appear to seriously threaten the general outlook for an average crop yield. Southern Illinois continues to send in the most serious reports as to ravages by clinch bugs. Alexander, Bond, Edwards, Jefferson and Monroe counties, all in Southern Illinois, report great injury in many of the fields. Greola, Franklin and Panorama counties in Kansas; Felton and Highland counties in Ohio, and Howard county in Indiana report considerable injury from clinch bugs. Grasshoppers are reported in numerous quantities in Wilson Valley, Iowa; Howard county, Indiana, and Athens county, Ohio.

Looking over the entire winter wheat belt the promise is still good for an average yield, but the early promise that the season was to bring forth a 'bumper' crop will not be abandoned. The acreage would not warrant such an outcome unless the conditions were everywhere extremely favorable. The late returns from Kansas do not indicate that the former estimate of from 40 to 50 per cent. of an average crop will be exceeded. The State of Michigan does not promise more than 85 per cent. of an average yield, while the average of Illinois now threatens to fall to 90 per cent. In Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky and possibly Indiana and Ohio conditions are still favorable for a full average crop.

Turning to the spring-wheat States and Territories the conditions continue to remain favorable in Iowa, Nebraska and Wisconsin for wheat and all the small grains. In Minnesota wheat on many of the lowlands has been drowned by the recent heavy rains. On all high and well drained lands the outlook continues to be excellent. In some portions of Dakota fears of injury from drought are expressed. Barns county reports serious need of rain. Cass county, the largest wheat producing county in the Territory, reports the wheat prospects never to have been more promising. The remaining counties report the growing grain up to a fair condition. Harvesting will commence in Tennessee, and it is promised that some grain cutting will begin the first week in June.

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, JUNE 3RD, 1886.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

LOCAL NEWS.

—This is Ascension day.

—First-class job work done at the JOURNAL office.

—If you have a good business, advertise and keep it; if not, advertise and get it.

A BIG BARGAIN.—Ladies' Hose, guaranteed fast colors, three pair for 25 cts, at Kauffman's store.

—Since the strikes are about ended it may be hoped that business will brighten as the summer advances.

—Regular services will be held in the Lutheran church of this place next Sunday forenoon by the pastor.

—Lightning completely destroyed the steeple of the German Reformed church at Milton, Pa., week before last.

—Misses' hose, a fine stock, warranted not to fade, at popular prices. Come and see at D. S. Kauffman & Co's.

—A new Self Binder Reaper for sale cheap, or will exchange on a good horse. Inquire of J. Spigelmyer.

SWEET SEED CORN.—Several quarts of Stowell's Evergreen Sweet Corn, for planting, for sale at the Journal Store.

—Miss Rose Harter, a former teacher of one of our town schools, smiled on her friends at this place last week.

—Sunday, June 13th, has been fixed upon as the time for the dedication of the new Lutheran church at Centre Hall.

—A Shamokin clothier sells men's straw hats two for five cents. Millheim merchants haven't come down to that yet.

—The festive fly is out in full bloom and people hasten to keep it out of their houses by putting up screen doors and windows.

—Mr. W. L. Snyder, the energetic implement man of Spring Mills, was in town and gave us a pleasant call. He is on a canvassing tour.

—Survival of the fitest. Downs' Elixir has outlived every cough remedy simply because it is the best. For sale by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—As the season advances Summer Shawls are being sold at a sacrifice at D. S. Kauffman & Co's store, and if you need one there is the place to get it.

—Our Rebersburg correspondent relates a horrible accident which befell a child of Daniel Weaver, of near Wolf's Store, and by which it is likely to lose its life.

—Mr. S. T. Frain, of the Keystone Hotel, Selinsgrove, states in a recent letter, that Mr. Harvey Lamey, of this place, was a guest at his house one day last week.

—We learn that grandmother Ulrich, who resides with her son, Mr. Michael Ulrich, on Main street, is in poor health. Old age is beginning to tell on her, it seems.

—Now that Decoration day is past it would be well to think of the coming Fourth of July and see what can be done in Millheim in the line of celebrating the 110th aniversary of American independence.

—Frank Lukenbach, of Bellefonte, spent Decoration day in Millheim and was heartily welcomed by many of his former schoolmates. Frank is growing into a handsome and polished young gentleman.

—A basket picnic will be held in a grove near Salem, about 2 miles west of Selinsgrove, by the grangers next Saturday. Hon. Leonard Rhone, of Centre Hall, is mentioned as one of the prominent speakers expected to be present.

—A close inspection of J. W. Lose's grocery will reveal the fact that John intends keeping step with the times and the demands of the trade. His stock is increasing from day to day and our readers will profit by giving him a call.

—When one watches the town boys hanging on to and climbing into the wagons that pass through town, sometimes in rapid motion, it seems a wonder that not more accidents to life and limb occur. It is an exceedingly risky habit.

—Mr. A. C. Musser, the senior member of our enterprising marble firm, was to Mifflinburg last week to put up tombstones on the graves of Mr. & Mrs. Dreibelbis at that place. He was accompanied by Mr. E. J. Brumgard and son.

—The appeals which will be held by the county commissioners at the Musser House, Millheim, next Wednesday, June 16th, will be as follows: For Miles and Haines in the forenoon, and for Penn and the borough in the afternoon.

—The undersigned gives notice that he has this day sold his stores at Millheim and Madisonburg to S. Spigelmyer, Jr., and employed D. L. Zerby collector of all accounts due J. Spigelmyer, Agent, which must be settled within ten days from date.

W. E. GHEEN.

Millheim, May 31st, 1886.

DEAD SOLDIERS HONORED IN MILLHEIM AND HAINES TOWNSHIP.—Heaven's unclouded canopy and the glorious rays of a warm May sun smiled upon us last Saturday and aided in making it a genuine sunshine holiday. Main street wore its festive garb and displayed a rich profusion of national colors, giving proof of our citizens' patriotism and their interest in the grand occasion at hand. Everybody seemed in genial spirits and anxiously awaited the return of the G. A. R. men from their trip to Brushvalley, where they had been in the forenoon to decorate the soldiers' graves at Madisonburg and Rebersburg. At noon a big string of carriages and buggies brought the post back to town for dinner, and at about half past one o'clock the Brushvalley band, in their wagon drawn by six horses, made its appearance, followed by a number of other large wagons, filled with people. This was the signal for forming in parade which was done in front of the Penn street school building, where the day before a large store of flowers had been deposited. The parade was the biggest affair Millheim had for some time and proceeded up Penn St. to Main in the following order:

Chief Marshal, M. M. Musser—Flag Bearer, Wallace Musser.
Rebersburg and Millheim Bands (consolidated.)
Banner of G. A. R. Post 298.
Post 298, Commander Van Valin.
Millheim Hook & Ladder Company drawing truck.
Teachers and scholars of the Sunday schools, carrying bouquets, Citizens.

Upon reaching the cemetery the regular exercises of the G. A. R. were gone through with, Commander Van Valin reading the memorial service. When the post had dropped their wreaths and bouquets of flowers upon the graves of their dead comrades and the bands had played dirges, the vast assembly of people were addressed in patriotic and impressive terms by Rev. Swengle, who was followed by a few appropriate remarks by Comrade Keller. A little after three o'clock the procession returned to town where the band wagons and carriages were in readiness to convey the bands and members of the post to Aaronsburg. It is hardly necessary to mention that the parade and exercises in the cemetery were witnessed by a large crowd of people who had gathered into town from all neighboring points soon after dinner. We heard close observers say that the number of people in town that afternoon was the largest ever known in Millheim on any like occasion.

When the bands and post arrived at Aaronsburg they formed in front of Dr. Musser's residence and marched first to the Lutheran and then to the Reformed cemetery. At both cemeteries the same order of exercises was observed as at this place, Rev. Deitzler delivering an address in the former and Rev. Z. A. Yearick in the latter. This being over, all entered their conveyances and the Rebersburg band departed for home.

From Aaronsburg the post, accompanied by the Millheim band, proceeded down the valley to decorate the graves of departed comrades in Wolf's cemetery. At this place, Hon. James P. Coburn, who had accompanied the procession from Aaronsburg, was requested to deliver an oration, which he did in his well-known and unsurpassed style. The beautiful flow of language and the animation with which he expresses his fine thoughts tend to deeply impress his audience in almost every instance.

The sun was about setting when the veterans and the band reached St. Paul, which was the last point of the day's route, and where the Sunday school stood in waiting with flowers. Here the services were gone through with for the last time and Mr. Coburn again addressed the small but attentive audience with a few well-chosen remarks. This ended the exercises of Memorial Day and they certainly were attended with greater interest and solemnity than in any previous year, of course all woing to the noble influence of the G. A. R. post. It is no doubt a source of great satisfaction to every true and patriotic heart that a worthy tribute has been paid to the memory of those who risked their lives for the safety of this great Union, and Millheim and its sister towns may safely say that this year they have done their full share in performing that solemn duty.

A WONDERFUL BOOK.—We should judge, by the wording of the advertisement in another column of this paper, that the new book entitled, "The World's Wonders," is indeed a wonderful book. It will pay the curious, as well as those seeking employment, to read the advertisement. The Historical Publishing Co. offers to give standard books free to persons who will send them names of book agents. They also offer to start people without capital in a business that will pay from $15 to $30 a day—a pretty good income for these hard times. Read the advertisement.

—For certain reasons, which it is unnecessary to give here, Mr. Sandoe, the tailor, has closed his shop in this town and removed his utensils back to Centre Hall. This sudden departure of so good a mechanic leaves us just where we were less than two months ago, viz: without a tailor. Mr. A. A. Frank authorizes us to advertise the shop for rent to any tailor who is an experienced workman and who can cut and fit to the satisfaction of his patrons. It is a splendid opening for a first-class tailor, as the town and surrounding country afford a large trade.

—All colors in Silicias at Kauffman's store.

—For Earache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swelled Neck, and the results of cold and inflammation, use Dr. Thomps' Eclectric Oil—the great pain destroyer.

—Mr. Jacob Wagner, Sr., an aged citizen of this county, residing in the Loop, departed this life on last Monday and was buried yesterday (Wednesday) forenoon.

—Every bottle of Arnica & Oil Liniment sold is warranted by the proprietors to give satisfaction or money will be refunded. For sale by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—Mr. Clair Gephart, who holds a clerkship in one of Logansville's leading stores, was home on a visit to his parents, Mr. Jacob Gephart's, over Sunday. Clair likes his position right well and seems pleased with his present place of abode.

—D. S. Kauffman, one of our leading merchants, took a pleasure trip to Clinton county for a few days and visited Lock Haven. He was very favorably impressed with Clinton county's capital and seems to feel good over the whole of his journey.

—Many thanks are due the young ladies of this town for their contributions of well arranged and beautiful bouquets of flowers on Decoration Day. Their valuable assistance at such times is indispensable and is duly appreciated by all.

—Landlord Rook's newly painted carriage, which conveys passengers from Coburn station to the National hotel at this place, is on the road, and makes an attractive appearance. The job was done by that excellent coachpainter, C. W. Albright.

—Speaking of grand success in fishing this season, Mr. C. K. Sobers, the well-known sportsman, tells us that he and a friend of his caught over 200 fair-sized trout in less than half a day, the other week. They were angling at the head of Penns Creek.

—More people, adults and children, are troubled with costiveness than with any other ailment. Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters will cure costiveness and prevent the diseases which result from it. For sale by J. Spigemyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—For taste and elegance E. W. Mauck's wall papers can not easily be beat. We were shown a room in Mr. Noah Stover's residence on Penn street the other day and were filled with admiration of Mr. Mauck's skill and exactness in hanging paper and producing beautiful effects.

—Strange to say we have not yet heard of a single picnic or festival in this neck o' woods. Frank Jordan is waiting on gute Kuche this long time and we even heard a bandmember remark the other day that he will resign his place if the outlook for a picnic dinner does not soon get better.

—Mrs. Emmons' lecture on temperance in the Evangelical church last Friday evening was largely attended and resulted in the organization of an auxilary society to the W. C. T. U., with Mrs. B. O. Deininger as president. Mrs. Emmons was pronounced a splendid speaker by those who were among her audience.

—By scanning our advertising columns our readers will find S. T. Frain's card, in which he announces the superior accommodations afforded at the Keystone Hotel, Selinsgrove, of which he is the enterprising and obliging landlord. Mr. Frain has faith in the value of printers' ink and his faith, we're sure, is in the right.

—The towncouncil of Danville made war on the telegraph and telephone poles and hereafter each pole in that town represents a tax of $1.00. Now if our borough fathers should ever get a similar idea, we would propose that an extra 25 cts. be added on every telephone pole, as a special tax for bad appearance and crookedness.

—Efforts are being made to effect the organization of "Sons of Veterans" of this place and vicinity and we are requested to announce that a meeting will be held for that purpose in the Millheim town hall next Saturday evening when all the young men whose fathers were in service during the late war are requested to attend and to signify their intention of joining the junior post.

—We are not in the habit of "boasting" about the JOURNAL, but the following sentence, taken from a letter to this office from J. A. McDonald, proprietor of the Central Pennsylvania Pharmacy at Reedsville, is certainly very complimentary and speaks for itself: Please continue our advertisement until we tell yon to stop, as I find your paper one of the best advertising journals I ever used.

—Confer & Son, the planing mill men are busily engaged in the manufacture of building material for the Methodist church in this place, which will be remodeled after harvest. We understand that the changes will consist in a new steeple, to be built from the ground, a new roof, new floors and windows. At that rate Main street will be able to boast of a fine church building by next winter.

—The first copy of the 'Times-News,' Selinsgrove's new paper and at the same time Snyder county's democratic organ, is on our table. By all appearances the proprietors, Messrs. Early & Lesher, have the necessary qualifications and push to issue a wide-awake and readable weekly and if they continue on that line we predict success for them. Of course the wish is father to the prophecy.

—An Arizona paper of recent date has the following paragraph: "If our paper dosen't seem as bright as usual this week we beg our readers to overlook the fact. Some durn fool came in on Monday, while we were over to Al Blodgett's and spilled all our mucilage Now we can't do without the mucilage if it is to hold its place in the community. We have a right smart bunch of brains, but we don't pretend to cover four sides of a paper at once. P. S.—We have bought a new bottle of mucilage, and warn the onery cuss who spilt the last bottle that he will have to pay for it or get a licking.

WAITING A CLAIMANT.—A challenge is offered to any one who can produce a case of torpid liver that will not succumb to the influence of Simmons Liver Regulator, taken regularly by direction.

—Adolf Lalloz, carriage manufacturer, 119 Carroll Street, Buffalo N. Y., states: "I was troubled with nausea of the stomach, sick headache and general debility. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.—Just two weeks ago we recorded the fracture of Charles Alter's arm and in this issue we are again obliged to publish a similar occurrence. The subject of this article is Eddie, the little son of Mrs. Emma Tomlinson, who about a month ago left for the West. On Saturday forenoon Eddie accompanied his uncle, Will Ulrich, to Coburn on a lumber wagon and on his return occupied the back part of the now empty wagon. When turning the corner of Main and Penn streets he jumped off and the hind wheel of the heavy wagon passed over his lower limbs, breaking the left one at the thigh. He was picked up and taken home to his grandparents, Michael Ulrich's, where he received proper medical attendance. His mother was at once telegraphed for and arrived on Tuesday morning. The little fellow stood the painful operation bravely and without any drug whatever and is at this writing doing very well.

—Observations made during last Saturday's parade occasion us to suggest to our worthy town council the making of an ordinance "prohibiting the tying of teams or the stopping of horses on streets where such parades pass or public demonstrations take place." Such an ordinance might prove the means of averting serious accidents on such occasions and it always pays to take time by the firelock. In several instances accidents were prevented last Saturday only by the pluck and presence of mind of some of our citizens, who just in time turned away frightened horses, that stood along the line of march. Had it not been for this timely assistance several women and children might have been trampled to death. Horses as a rule become unmanageable when they hear a brass band or see a large flag or banner passing by and for that reason should not be allowed on the principal streets of town during public parades. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

—The new building of Musser & Smith, in course of erection at the corner of Main and Penn streets, is nearing completion. When finished it will be an ornament to town. The lower story contains two spacious store rooms facing Main street, with attractive plate glass fronts, and is divided by a staircase of comfortable width, which leads to the second story. The other two rooms face Penn street, the one to be used as a warehouse, the other to be rented to a mercantile firm. The upper story of the building will be partitioned off so as to make four fair-sized rooms, the largest of which is being fitted up for a G. A. R. and I. O. O. F. hall. Said hall is situated above the storeroom which will be occupied by Mr. Jerome Spigelmyer. The other three rooms are above the hardware store and will be specially adapted for smaller societies. Altogether the structure will be the handsomest and most convenient in town and the proprietors, as well as the contractor, Mr. John Kerstetter, Jr., can with just pride look upon it as the work of their enterprise and mechanical skill.

SETTLEMENT NOTICE.—As we wish to close our books we request all persons who have unsettled accounts with us to call at our place for settlement not later than June 15th, 1886. Parties who fail to comply with this request between this and the above date will be compelled to do so by law.

BARTGES & BRO.

Madisonburg, Pa., May 20, '86. 3t

Letter from Nebraska.

EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL:—No doubt it may be of some interest to the many readers of your paper to read a few lines from this part of the world.

Since the 16th of March, last, the time I left home, I found out more about this great country than I ever knew before I left my old home, three miles east of Rebersburg, Pa. When we started we were a party of five until we reached Chicago, when we scattered, each going in a different direction. I stopped two weeks in Kane and DeKalb counties, Ill., to visit some of my friends. Finding no profitable work in that section, I went on to Nebraska. The ground at that time, was covered with snow nearly all the way. I arrived at Geneva, Fillmore county, on the 2nd of April. The weather was cold and the reads were in a terrible condition. The next day, Saturday, the snow fell fast, and a fierce wind blew it along in blinding drifts. That same day I started for my final destination, about 10 miles southwest. The winter storms had now ceased and the weather became pleasant. The farmers began work in their 160 acre fields. The mechanics commenced building up the new towns which are springing up in the midst of the large prairies. The Burlington and Missouri River R. R. Company are constructing two railroads which cross each other in this county, one leading from Fairmount to Kansas City, the other from Beatrice to Hastings. Quite a number of new towns were laid out along these roads and their first houses are being erected. Carpenters are settling here from all parts, the writer being one of them, and the sound of the hammers and the screaching of the saws makes things real lively. We are paid from $2 to $2.50 per day.

Many of the eastern folks think this is the wrong country to emigrate to. They imagine it to be swept clean of everything by the raging storms. But such is not the case. The farmers out here have two chances to one in the East. Here they raise more grain, more fruit and more stock. From 75 to 150 acres of corn, and an abundance of small grain, may be found on every farm. Melons and peanuts are raised by a good many farmers and much enjoyed by eastern immigrants. The farmer finds a ready market for all he raises. Wheat is worth 45 cents, Oats 20 cts., Corn 16 cts., Rye 40 cts., Pork $3.25 and fat cattle $4.00 per hundred. Butter sells at 10 cts., per lb. and eggs at 8 cts. per doz.

We had a heavy rain on the 22nd of May. The weather is fair and the ground dry. Streams are scarce and springs are not known of. But water can readily be secured at any place by boring a well. Three men will bore a well 300 feet deep in one day without working very hard. Once in a while we are visited by prairie fires.

But I must close lest I weary you and the readers of the Journal. With the request to send the Journal to me for one year, I am

Yours truly,
C. C. SPANGLER.

COBURN.

Warm weather has now taken the place of the recent cold snap

Dr. Deshler and wife, of Aaronsburg, left for the West last week, via Washington, D. C. and the P. R. R.

Mr. Wibley, our new track boss, moved from Watsontown into part of the residence of F. P. Barker.

The Lutheran congregation of this place organized a Mite Society one eyening last week.

Our blacksmith, Felix, is doing a good business, and works early and late.

There is no one out of employment, that we know of, around here, which speaks well for the place.

The new firm of Durham Bros & Co., will shortly stock up the new addition to their store room and will carry a complete line of general merchandise and groceries. And now is their time to advertise in the Journal as it will pay them to do so.

Mrs. Clark has moved into the new building across from the depot.

Our shoemaker, Tom Keen, is kept very busy at his trade.

Quite a number of our citizens took in Millheim on Decoratian Day.

Messrs. Grenninger, Barker & Hockman spent two days along the mountain streams fishing last week and report trout plenty.

Quite an exciting time around the station last Saturday between one of our citizens and two Jew peddlers.

VALE.

AARONSBURG.

Andy says its Buffalo Mead—yum.

P. Gross Yearick, of Philadelphia, is here paying his annual visit to his parents, Mr. Thos. Yearick's.

John Beayer has broken ground for a new residence on North 2nd street, on a lot adjoining his present place of residence.

Abs. Confer has put up a neat little building to be used as a confectionery and grocery on North 2nd St. That thoroughfare means business.

Dynamite! Ira Gramley and his associate, a Mr. Wilson, form Spring Mills, have contracted to blow out a large number of rocks and stumps in Penns and Brush Valleys with dynamite.

Thos. J. Kister exhibited his skill as sign painter by lettering a confectionery and tobacco sign for Chas. H. Stover, on Tannery Hill.

H. H. and F. J. Weaver are off again to York state for another lot of Holstein cattle.

Mrs. John G. Kurtz, of Milton, Pa., in a letter to her relatives at this place, says, that on Saturday, the 22nd, ult., the lightning struck the German Reformed church, the Presbyterian parsonage, a railroad bridge and a barn in that town. There was also a heavy fall of rain and hail. The extent of the damage we did not learn.

S. H. Diehl put down a stone pavement in front of his residence; D. H. Lenker follows by putting down a brick pavement, while C. G. Bright is also putting down a stone pavement and will enclose his front yard with a fence. Who's next?

Samuel Miller, Aaronsburg's oldest resident shoemaker is confined to his bed, suffering from what is known as dropsy. We are told at this writing Mr. Miller is in a dangerous condition.

The masons and the boss carpenter, Mr. Bierly with his men from Brushvalley, commenced work on Lewis Mench's barn last Monday morning. Some of the boys are already smacking their lips for that good dinner they expect to eat on the day of "raising."

Since the editor of the Journal took an active part in the ceremonies of last Saturday, Decoration day, we expect him to assume the task of giving the readers of the Journal a report of the day's proceedings. ANOTHER.

SMITH TOWN.

Miss Ella Swartz and Miss Emma Shull from Rebersburg were visitors in this place on Sunday.

Well, Ben, how did you get that basket home? But we will keep mum and not tell on you.

Last week an agent canvassed our vicinity with a liniment and took night lodging with W. F. Smith. By the appearance of his room the liniment is the strongest stuff that was ever made. It will be advisable for the fellow never to show his face in Smith Town again.

Wm. Bright and family, of Millheim, were in our midst on Sunday.

One of our young men, who is but a child yet, carries a revolver and is bold enough to flourish it and shoot with it publicly on Sunday evenings when going home from preaching. Now, Mr. Editor, what should we do with such boys? [Send them to this town for good training and we are sure High Constable Sankey will learn them better manners in less than a week.—Ed.]

There is a very bad disease among the cows in this neighborhood. H. E. Duck has three on the sicklist and they are hardly able to move about.

Prof. Likewise spent Sunday in this vicinity.

On Saturday nearly all of Smith Town's population was to Millheim to take in the decoration exercises, which were gotten up in real fine style.

JUMBO.

SPRING MILLS.

Mrs. Dr. Frank, of Philadelphia, is at present here with her surveyors to locate lands, for which she claims to have an old title. She seems, however, to have trouble to locate the lines which would correspond with her drafts.

The game of base ball on Decoration day was quite interesting. The Centre Hall club carried off the laurels.

Chas. Miller, Esq., has made a business trip to Lock Haven.

On Decoration day a very large crowd gathered at the graveyard to decorate the graves of their departed comrades and friends with the most beautiful flowers the country can afford. The Challenge Band of this place was in attendance and furnished music for the occasion. ***

Of Interest to Ladies.

The new treatment for ladies' diseases discovered by Dr. Mary A. Gregg, the distinguished English Physician and nurse, which has revolutionized the entire mode of treating these complaints in England is now being introduced into the U. S., under a fair novel plan.

Sufficient of this remedy for one month's trial treatment is sent free to every lady who is suffering from any disease common to the sex who sends her address and 13 2ct stamps for expense, charges, etc.

It is a positive cure for any form of female disease and the free trial package is many times sufficient to effect a permanent cure. Full directions accompany the package (which is put up in a plain wrapper) also price list for future reference. No trial package will be sent after Aug. 1st, 1886. Address, GREGG REMEDY COMPANY, PALMYRA, N. Y. 19 3m

MARRIED.

On the 2nd inst., at the White House, Washington, D. C., by Rev. Dr. Sunderland, President Grover Cleveland to Miss Frankie Folsom, both of Buffalo, N. Y. Exchanges please copy.

Rebersburg and Vicinity.

Hem! Here we are again, after being urged by many readers of the Journal to give them an occasional slip of items.

In this section the prospect for an abundant hay crop is good.

J. R. Brumgart's new brick house is nearing completion.

Prof. C. L. Gramley gave the outside of his house a coat of paint, which improves the appearance of his residence very much.

A disease which seems to baffle the skill of our horse doctor, A. G. Gramley, has visited the stables of Dan. Royer, and two valuable horses belonging to that gentleman have died of this disease.

Jno. Spangler at present has the plasterers at work on the interior of his stone mansion which has been remodeled. Mr. Spangler also expects to give the outside of the building a coat of plastering.

Last week a set of Snyder county carpenters came to this vicinity and proceeded to tear down an old barn owned by Jacob Gephart. They are at present engaged in framing a new barn, which will be erected a few rods north from where the old one stood.

One day last week, while two of Wes. Snyder's children were playing in the barn, they eyed a straw cutter. The little girl at once began to turn it, while her brother, aged about five years, attempted to feed the machine. He got his hand too close to the knives, and two of his fingers were cut off and his thumb badly lacerated. Dr. Bright was at once summoned to dress the wound and the little boy is doing as well as can be expected.

Samuel Condo has the painters at work on some of his outbuildings. Sam is trying to make his new home attractive.

On Tuesday of last week, while a small child of Daniel Weaver, near Wolf's Store, was playing in the house, it crept on the hot stove plate. Its clothing ignited and before the flames could be extinguished the child was so badly burned that it is not expected to live.

A valuable colt, owned by Perry Condo, died of that much-dreaded disease which seems to be rapidly spreading throughout this part of Brushvalley.

Memorial Day was well observed in our town. Members of the G. A. R. post arrived here in the forenoon from Millheim and Aaronsburg to join the veterans of this valley in the solemn decoration ceremonies. They were headed by the Rebersburg band and presented a real fine column. Revs. Landis, Dotterer and Lenord delivered the addresses of the day and our town was filled with spectators, giving it a lively appearance. SQUIBOB.

TO THE LADIES
of Millheim & Vicinity.

I wish to call your attention and invite your inspection of the elegantly trimmed and neatly made line of just received at my place, next door to E. C. Campbell's residence, on Main Street.

Hats, Bonnets, Lace Caps, etc. etc.

REMEMBER!

that my styles and prices suit all and that I constantly keep on hand a full stock of

Laces, Ribbons, Feathers, Flowers, Pin Ornaments, and everything necessary for trimmings.

☞ Call on me if in need of any millinery goods and you will not regret it.

Respectfully,

A Stump Speaker "Up a Stump."

Stories of General George A. Sheridan, the stump speaker and lecturer, who is generally paraded as 'of Louisiana,' are often to be heard in the places where public men gather. He is said to have once declared the axiom that the one thing which a stump orator does not need to burden himself with is facts. It is the General's idea that a facile speaker can create all the facts he wants as he goes along in his speech. In illustration of his meaning he told a story of an occurrence when he was out on a tour with General Garfield. He had made an assertion with reference to the tariff which seemed to him to need some bolstering and he said that his statement had been based on a decision of the highest court of the State of New York. He was about to pass on, when a young man in the audience interrupted him and begged permission to ask where this decision could be found. The General was 'up a stump' and as a fight for time in the hope that Garfield might help him out he asked inquirer, 'Are you a lawyer?" The stranger replied in the affirmative. 'I thought so,' said Sheridan. 'You look like a smart and intelligent one at that. You have doubtless read this decision yourself many times.' By this time it became apparent to Sheridan that Garfield was enjoying his discomfiture and that he must get out of his scrape the best he could. It flashed across his mind that there was a report in New-York known as Denio's, and he said: 'The report is in 5th Denio, page so and so.' The young lawyer wavered a minute and then sat down, saying meekly, 'Ah, yes, I do remember now having read it myself." Sheridan says that he had curiosity afterward to look up the particular page to which he referred the inquisitive young fellow, and found that it was the middle of a report of a case involving questions of idiocy.

A Nevada Senator's Luck.

Senator Jones in the San Francisco Post says: 'I've always believed in Providence since one day, years ago, when I was Sheriff over in Shasta County. It was a roaster of a day, and I was returning on horseback from a hunt for some sluice robbers. I was slowly following a faint mountain trail, and the sun was just baking me, and the horse was in a lather. I came under the shade of a big rock, and thought it would be pleasant to get off and have a smoke. I sat down on a cool boulder, cut a pipeful of tobacco from my plug, filled my pipe and felt for a match. Well, Joe, there wasn't a match anywhere in my pockets. I searched and searched, but there was no match. I tell you, Joe, I felt worse over that disappointment than I've done since when the market has gone back on me and hit me for a hundred thousand at a clip. But while I sat there on that boulder wrapped in gloom, what d'ye suppose my eye suddenly fell on? A match, by heavens, lying on the trail not six feet away from me! I used it—though I was a little afraid to touch it at first—and had my smoke. So you needn't worry about how this political fight is going to come out. A man for whom Providence will go to the trouble of providing a match for a smoke in the wilds of the Sierra Nevadas, where man's foot scarcely ever treads, isn't likely to get left when it comes to a commonplace little thing like being elected to the United States Senate. Ever since that time,' concluded the Comstocker, 'I've never refused a dollar to a parson, and have generally done my best, in a quiet, unobtrusive way, to make myself solid with the people who have the pull on Providence.'

Bleeding the Farmer.

There is no other industrial pursuit than agriculture which is so burdened with alleged improvements for which patents have been secured. The farmer's soul is vexed with claims for royalties from an endless variety of people who demand money for devices for which patents have been secured unjustly. Fences, wells, churns, gates, harrows, clevices and a great variety of simple tools and devices which are used by farmers; and even methods of pruning, laying down trees and vines for winter protection, and now an old method of making drains, have been patented and the use of them is denied to the public. The worst of it is that the majority of these claimants are farmers themselves, and do their best to tax their brother farmer without any adequate return being made, and moreover it causes and encourages litigation and wastes hard-earned money. This is a matter which needs reforming, and farmers should combine to insist upon a deliverance from this irritating and costly nuisance.

QUAKER
Is the Best
TABLE SAUCE.
Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor, as a really prized and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and pureness. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.
